

Customer Update: Clearlake Customers May Notice Temporary Change In Water Clarity

Golden State Water Company (Golden State Water) customers in some Clearlake neighborhoods may notice a temporary change in water clarity due to a recent adjustment in the water treatment process to address excess manganese at the water's source. The condition is temporary and should be resolved over the next few days as water moves through the distribution system.

The water served to customers in Clearlake continues to meet all state and federal drinking water standards for safety.

Customers may notice crews flushing the distribution system to clear the underground water mains in an effort to accelerate the timeline. Click here for additional information on flushing.
